Slides

Check your local library for these books!

On Soil + No-Till

- Building Soils for Better Crops, Fred Magdoff and Harold Van Es (the PDF is super long, but you can totally pick and choose which sections feel the most relevant to your interests/endeavors)
- The No-Till Organic Vegetable Farm, Daniel Mays (you can purchase here)
- Farming While Black (chapters 4 and 5 in particular), Leah Penniman (you can purchase here)
- Teaming with Microbes, Jeff Lowenfels and Wayne Lewis (you can purchase here)
 - For more depth, also check out Teaming with Fungi, Teaming with Bacteria, and Teaming with Nutrients
- Short videos on the Dr. Elaine Ingham Soil Food Web School website
- Animal, Vegetable, Junk, Mark Bittman (you can purchase here) (This is not a technical farming text, but it offers great historical and social framing to the work of growing food)
- My mentor, Mark Congdon's, Instagram :)

On Reciprocity / Relationships with Food + Land

- Braiding Sweetgrass, Robin Wall-Kimmerer (you can purchase here)
- Farming While Black (chapters 3, 8, 10, 13, and 14 in particular), Leah Penniman (you can purchase here)
- The Red Deal: Indigenous Action to Save Our Earth, The Red Nation (you can purchase here)
- Judaism Unbound podcast episode 290: Nobody Owns Land (you can listen here)
- All My Relations podcast episode: ThanksTaking or ThanksGiving? (you can listen here)
- 6-episode podcast series by Farmerama: "Cereal," esp episodes 2 and 3 (you can listen here)
- Settler Colonialism, Ecology, and Environmental Justice, Kyle Whyte (you can read here)
- Indigenous Environmental Justice: Anti-Colonial Action Through Kinship, Kyle Whyte (you can read here)
- Indigenous Food Systems, Environmental Justice, and Settler-Industrial States, Kyle Powys Whyte (you can read here)
- Learning from the Land: Indigenous land-based pedagogy and decolonization, Matthew Wildcat, Mandee McDonald, Stephanie Irlbacher-Fox, Glen Coulthard (you can read here)
- Land as pedagogy: Nishnaabeg intelligence and rebellious transformation, Leanne Betasamosake Simpson (you can read here)
- Mobilizing a knowledge economy of reciprocity, resurgence and decolonization, Erin Freeland Ballantyne (you can read here)
- Degrowth in Demand: Degrowth, Decolonization, and Agriculture, Lexie Smith and Jamie Tyberg (you can read here)

- Dieting Will Always Fail in a Toxic Food Culture. Here's How to Fix It, Chris Newman (you can read here)
- Agroecology: One of the "Tools" for Degrowth, Miguel Alfredo Ruiz Lopez (you can read here)

And as always, learn about + financially support (as possible) the indigenous peoples who land you occupy as well as water protectors + land protectors who have been putting their bodies on the line to defend + preserve + recreate the ideas and practices discussed in these texts